Construction

The Peninsula Mailbox is assembled primarily by welding. The front bottom corners are strengthened by decorative corner guards attached with antique-finish screws. The roof is attached to the body by means of corrosion resistant screws.

Finish

The antique brass finish is created using a multi-step accelerated oxidation process, followed by hand polishing to give the product a natural antique appearance. The brass finish will likely mature over time to a darker color with patina highlights.

Other Characteristics

- The door face on 2402ABE is embossed with an "Eternity" design. This particular design has been used frequently throughout history to symbolize eternal time or infinity.
- All installation hardware and instructions are included.
- Soft pads cushion the spring loaded incoming slot upon closing.
